

Enterprise Ruby

Contributed by Nick Griffith
Wednesday, 21 February 2007
Last Updated Wednesday, 21 February 2007

I have always had trouble finding a way to convince people in my company to use ruby on rails for projects. We are a mostly java shop and if you are familiar with java, it takes forever to even do the simplest of web applications. I found this O'reilly article that answered some of my questions about ruby in an enterprise situation and helped give me some talking points to use.